

8. Next Steps

Multidisciplinary Collaboration – Innovation – Diversity – Excellence. These have become the guiding principles of U of T Engineering. We will continue to use these tenets as foundation on which we build our future. Our Faculty will undergo an external review in early 2017 as part of the University’s governance processes. We will utilize the reviewers’ recommendations, along with our reflective self-study, to assist us in our next round of academic planning. As a Faculty, we will continue to build on the strengths of our departments, institutes and community of partners to develop further synergies across research initiatives and educational programming in a thriving, enriching, and supportive academic environment.